PERSONAL.-We regret that we are to lose our estimable citizen Col. F. D. Stone, who took his departure yesterday for Fort Dodge, Iowa. He intends devoting himself there to sheep raising and the wool business generally. Col. 8, has hosts of friends n this city, who, while they deeply regret his removal hence, will follow him to his newhome and avocation with their best wishes for health, success and happiness, oticed the death by drawning in the canal of a little boy of Mr. Peter Damm, (Dunn, we erroneously quoted it) and stated on the authority of our informant, that the father threw the boy into the water. This was incorrect. The father accompanied his two little boys to the water, to watch their movements. While undressing the younger, the elder managed to get into the canalunobserved, and quickly sank. Mr. Damm looked up and down the tow-path in vain, and the boy was found by another lad, who stepped on his body. It is strange that, as there were many boys in swimming at the time, the lad could have got in and drowned without observation.

We make this correction in justice to the father. It should have appeared in our last issue, but was unavoidably crowded

SINGING IN SCHOOLS .- Among the modern improvements, so called, must be reckoned singing in schools. The practice is undoubtedly highly satisfactory to the juveniles, as proved by their unction and vehemence of rendering, but it is an open question if those living neighbors to schools are particularly edified. Many such, especially if old residents, complain of an obtuseness of the sense of hearing-a result of the hammering of the auditory nerve. We notice they all have a resigned expression, as if with them the contest were over and their wills surrendered up to departure from life at any moment. As for ourselves, Providence has, no oubt wisely, fixed our lot,-not a city lot, the Assessor and Treasurer are witnesses,near a certain school house in this city. There the scholars sing everything from the Doxology to the Blue-Tailed Fly. Arithmetic and Geography are set to music. We never in our childhood discovered much melody in the multiplication table, but the teachers of this generation have seen that even that dry schedule is underlaid with music, and they give all the neighbors and passers-by a daily touch of the harmony. We have known or seen people so moved by this music that they oluntarily and, as it were, frantically, withdrew to their closets and shut the door, and in some households, near the schools, wads of cotton may be seen lying around handy in all the rooms, ready for instant insertion into the ears. For there s no knowing just when the dismon will inter into a man or woman, so capricious are the teachers and urchins,

They say that such was the power of rpheus' melody, he could at any time he wanted to build a city or get a load of wood asuled up to his door, by the mere magic ones of his lyre, pluck up stones and trees and draw them, as well as animals, to his side. As the proof of art is its hold on nature, the power of music may be convenently measured by its visible effect on the simal creation. Mice have been known o be musical, i. e., have been intoxicated to death with the doubtful melody produced by an amsteur from reluctant cat-gut. If we apply this test to the music which floats out from our city schools, it may be observed that cats which have grown gray in the vicinity of said houses, do not mind the singing a all. They are not in the least excited, much less startled. But let a strange cat be passing by a school house, and the scholars all of a sudden let out on the high otes, it has been seen repeatedly to turn about hurriedly, apparently in great coneern of mind, and after gazing about frantically two or three instants, suddenly turn tail and fiee. The effect on it is much like that produced by throwing a bowl of water from an upper window upon a feline creature sleeping and dreaming below. It lights out without ceremony. But as it may be objected that cats, especially Thomas cats, haven't much of an ear for music, (notwithstanding the fact that they contrive to make the night vocal with their sweet lyrics, voluptuous, amorous dulcet strains, bewitching serenade songs and hymns of praise) we will turn for the space of a sentence or two, to observe the effect of the school singing upon dogs, those nobis brutes, the companions and imitators of man. The susceptibility of dogs is well known, and also their power of sympathy and the habit of always expressing it on theoceasions which call it forth. It is a touching sight, and the sound pathetic in the extreme, -all the dogs in a neighborhood marked by a radius of an hundred rods from a public school house, moaning and dismally howling while the dear children are singing.

If we might be allowed to offer a friendly criticism on the excellent practice of singing in schools, we would humbly suggest that the different spartments should not sing at the same time and with full power of lungs, throat and disphragm, pieces so diverse in sentiment and time as Old Hundred and Pop Goes the Wessel. The effect is slightly incongruous and inharmonious. We would also beg leave to observe in the triendliest spirit, that the sentiment and the expression or rendering of it should be somehow co-incident. That is, a common or weak sentiment should not be sung with excessive vehemence, as is often done in the schools, we notice. For example, we heard the juveniles in one of the schools, the other day, sing for the space of ten minutes, with the full power of the orchestra, the unimportant matter-of-fact, "Twice seven are fourteen," &c. They iterated it and reiterated it, time over and over, until a sensative ear wanted to shout, "Halt!" They charge of peddling cigars without license, kept singing, however, this statement with grashing effect. It was like the clash of innumerable cymbals, and, considering the great effect and the trivial subject, seemed like a blast of trumpets sounding a charge on rabbits or mice. Now there is no sense we humbly submit, in putting such crash ing, thunderbolt emphasis on a matter so unimportant, because so abstract, as "Twice to draw out the folks to church in villages seven are fourteen." If it meant that each and country places, than the return of the singer was declaring that, in every rendering of that statement, he was putting into his pocket, as profits, fourteen one dollar THE 104TH O. NON-EPIECOPAL METHODIST CONVENTION .-A convention composed of appointed and waning, with regard to the movements of volunteer representatives, lay and ministerial, from all the non-Episcopal Methodist Churches in the United States, will assemble in the Wesleyan Church (Rev. Mr. Kuight's) in this city, to-day. The object is to cenfer upon a plan of union into one denomination. The call for the convention has been signed and circulated among the Methodist Protestant, Wesleyan, Independent, and Free Methodist, beside a number of Congregational Methodist Churches. The occasion promises to be one of unusual interest. Should all these denominations ultimately unite, they would form one of the most influential and progressive ecclosiastical organizations in this country. This convention is preliminary and unofficial, and is open to all who may desire to participate in the exercises. Our citizens would do well to attend.

ARRIVAL OF THOOPS .- The 11th New York Cavalry, 300 strong, arrived here on yesterday morning's Cincinnati train. Their oming was not dreamed of. While the Lake Shore train was being made up, about seventy members of the regiment broke their fast at the Home, and then went on their way rejoicing.

At two o'clock the 14th Michigan Independent Battery, 166 men, under command of Lieutentaut Finley, arrived here from Washington, via Pittsburgh. They are one year's men, and have been doing duty in the defences around the former city. They have, during the year, had no diversion save that of a single raid. None of them have been killed in engagement, but nine have died of disease. They took dinner at the Home, and whiled away the hours until the departure of the boat for Detroit, on which they took passage.

On Saturday night a man was seen prowling around the premises of Mr. Smith, the Superintendant of the Western Union Telegraph L ne, on Main street, and was seared away by some of the neighbors. On Sunday night two men were discovered by Mr. S., who had been apprised of the first visit, and was prepared. o receive others. One of the men went into the front yard, while the other remained outside to give notice of the approach of any person. Mr. Smith, hearing them, g t up, opened the door very quietly and suddenly confronted the man in the yard before he was aware of it, and inquired his business there at that time of night. The thief replied that he was looking for a place to sleep. He was warned to leave, or he would be assisted to do so with a ball. He and his companion didn't stop to argue the question but decamped forthwith.

College Commencement .-- The commence ment of Alleghany College is on Wednesday, the 28th. But six students graduatethe smallest number that have graduated any year in our recollection.

THE PIRES OF YESTERDAY MORNING -We supplement, this morning, the account of the fire, with loss, &c., given in our last issue. The first fire broke out in E. J. Whalen's Forest City Cabinet Manufactory No. 149 Pittsburgh street. His loss on building and machinery was about $9,580, on which there was an insurance of $7,060, His dwelling house was damaged to the extent of $400. His barn ditto, $175, on which was an insurance of $100. Mr. Wm. Brisie's dwelling, adjoining, was damaged to the amount of $200. His barn, &c., was also damaged, as were also those of Mesers. Kinney, Young and others, but to what extent has not transpired.

The loss on R. R. Herrick's joiner shop, including lumber, is about $10,000, and $5,000 on the tools. Total insurance $4,000. An adjoining barn was burned with carriages, harness, and two horses. Loss not entimated.

Mrs. Catherine Johnson's dwelling, No. 9 Cheshire street, was destroyed. Loss $600. An adjoining house, in course of building by Mesers. Daffler and Zoeter, was also burned. Loss $1,400; no insurance. The loss, we understand, falls on the contracting builders and not on Mr. Stanley, the destined owner. Mr. Joseph Bailey's house, No. 13 Chesire street, was damaged to the extent of $400; no insurance. And several buildings on Prospect Street, owned by Mr. By Mr. Buhrer, That the City Commissioner be requested to notify the parties who have contracted to sprinkle Pearl was also slightly damaged, but his insurwas also slightly damaged, but his insurance will cover all loss.

FINANCIAL & COMMERCIAL.

THESDAY EVENTER, June 21, 1868. The last i-telligence from Europe is oridinally regarded by the yold operators as wors favorable than t e general public could have suspece?, if we may judge from the decided off of is has had open the price of gold. We think it very likely that the Beropean mails brought liberal orders for our Gov-ernment securities, and so this fact is due the declins of the gold promium, as no ecsential change has been made in the cammercial status, so far a the shipments of our products are con wroad. But it would not require very large shipments of Govrament Bonds to bring about a balance is our foreign accounts, and should the demand on the other side be such as we have reason to believe it is, the result would be to reduce the demand for cash gold in our markets simply to the wants of importers for custom duties, under the which, the p emium c uld not po ably be maintained at anything like its present figure. The Banks of this city report an improved do mand for discounts to day, and a so further calls for currency by the tovernment, which together have more than balanced the receipts, so that the ma ket may be reported closer in the aggregat. The free movements of Produce Eastward from the interior, is drawing in re heavily on the Sucky, but the downward movement of the Ession marhets may check this for the present, and give the Banks an opportunity so replenish Exchange is still close and firm at par buying and 14 premium
